01

ARISTIDES (Publius Aelius Aristides Theodorus) (117-181) - Greek orator

Dates unknown

“His early success was interrupted by a decades-long series of illnesses for which he sought relief by divine communion with the god Asclepius, effected by interpreting and obeying the dreams that came to him while sleeping in the god’s sacred precinct; he later recorded this experience in a series of discourses titled Sacred Tales...”

Diaries or ‘Sacred Orations’ in The Mission of Greece: Some Greek Views of Life in the Roman World edited by R.W.Livingstone, Oxford, Clarendon Press, 1928.

JOHN of NIKIÛ - Egyptian Coptic Bishop - E

Later 600’s

“... his Chronicle includes numerous unique points of Egyptian folklore and local history. He focuses on the religious turmoil in Alexandria and comments on the numerous quarrels and frequent violence that erupted between the Monophysite and Chalcedonian factions. As a Monophysite himself, John offers a rarely seen glimpse into the controversy that was still simmering even 250 years after the Council of Chalcedon.”

The Chronicle of John, Bishop of Nikiû Williams and Norgate, 1916, is reported to contain diary material.

ENNIN (Jikaku Daishi) (793-864) - Japanese Buddhist Monk - H24

July 8th. 838 to January 23rd. 848

Personal diary, kept in Chinese, of a Japanese Buddhist Monk on a pilgrimage to China in search of Buddhist learning and enlightenment. The perilous voyage to China with a servant and disciples, in company with a Japanese embassy; travels by river and canal, and on foot; fascinating details of dealings with Chinese bureaucracy; separation from the embassy; journey to the monastery at Wu T'ai and his stay there; matters of religion; on to the capital, Ch'ang-an; the growing persecution of Buddhists in the reign of the T'ang emperor Wu-tsung; the difficulties of the return journey to Japan. There are gaps during residences in monasteries and periods of study, but the entries at times of greatest interest and activity are generally full and detailed; this is the earliest eyewitness account of everyday life in China.

ANONYMOUS (d.995?) - Japanese noblewoman, daughter of Fujiwara Tomoyasu, known as "the mother of Michitsuna"

954 to 974

Autobiography and diary of an unhappy marriage; her resentment of rival wives and mistresses; life, poems and letters. This is the earliest product of the great flowering of Japanese literature written by women in the Heian period and the author is the first in the line of female diarists; she was related, by blood or marriage, to Sei Shonagon, Murasaki Shikibu and the author of the Sarashina Diary; her husband's cousin was Fujiwara no Sanesuke. The diary is known as the 'Kagero Nikki' or 'Gossamer Diary'.

1. - A partial translation appears in the introduction to the Sacred Tree volume of The Tale of Genji translated by Arthur Waley. London, Allen and Unwin, 1926.

2. - The Gossamer Years; The Diary of a Noblewoman of Heian Japan translated by Edward Seidensticker. Tokyo and Rutland, Vermont, Charles E. Tuttle, 1964, many times reprinted. This is a revised version of the translation first published by the Asiatic Society of Japan in 1955 and contains a very useful introduction.

1003_{AD}

IZUMI SHIKIBU - lady of the Japanese Court

From 1003

Poetic diary of a love affair with Prince Atsumichi. The authorship is uncertain and the diary was omitted from this bibliography in the first edition on the grounds that it is a romantic fiction, however, Earl Miner (see below), is persuasive that it should be regarded as a work of diary literature in the early Japanese tradition.

1. - In Diaries of Court Ladies of Old Japan by Annie Shepley Omori and Kochi Doi. London, Constable, 1921.
2. - The Diary of Izumi Shikibu in Japanese Poetic Diaries edited by Earl Miner. Berkeley and Los Angeles, University of California Press, 1969, pp 95-153.

LAUDONNIERE, Rene (1529-1582) French pioneer in Florida

a) - February 18th. to July 1562

Narrative of the first French exploration of the Florida Coast under Jean Ribault with two ships; friendly relations with the Indians; a small party of soldiers left near Parris Island, South Carolina, while the rest return to France.

In The Principal Voyages Traffiques and Discoveries of the English Nation, Made by Sea or Over-land to the Remote and Farthest Distant Quarters of the Earth at any time within the compasse of these 1600 Yeeres by Richard Hakluyt. Glasgow, James MacLehose and Sons, twelve volumes, 1903 to 1905, Volume VIII, pp 457-474.

Note: This narrative is preceded by a preface and by a descriptive account of the West Indies and Florida; it is followed by a brief, third hand relation of fate of the colony: despite good relations with the Indian population, the soldiers mutiny and kill their captain before attempting to sail to France in an ill equipped vessel; their ultimate rescue by an English ship after being reduced to eating one of themselves.

b) - April 22nd. 1564 to December (?) 1565

A full narrative of his second voyage, this time in command, with a view to planting a more substantial settlement; meeting with Indians and exploration of possible sites; founds Fort Caroline on the south bank of St. Johns River; complications over Indian wars; dissent and mutiny; food shortages, of which the natives take advantage; the kidnapping of a chief; open hostilities; preparations for the return to France; the providential arrival of John Hawkins relieves their want and he barter a ship with them in exchange for their heavy artillery and ammunition; Ribault arrives from France to supersede him but a Spanish attack makes all confusion and puts a bloody end to the French presence in Florida; return to France via England.

HAWKINS, John [Sir] (1532-1595) naval commander

a) - October 18th. to September 20th. 1765

Narrative, written by John Sparke, of Hawkins' second voyage to the Guinea coast for slaves with the Jesus (the Queen's ship), the Salomon, the Tiger and the Swallow and then to the West Indies to sell the slaves to the Spaniards; relieves the French settlement of Rene Laudonniere

(qv) on the Florida coast; home. A closely dated and expansive account with much good detail of encounters, negotiations, people and habitats.

In The Principal Voyages Traffiques and Discoveries of the English Nation, Made by Sea or Over-land to the Remote and Farthest Distant Quarters of the Earth at any time within the compasse of these 1600 Yeeres by Richard Hakluyt. Glasgow, James MacLehose and Sons, twelve volumes, 1903 to 1905, Volume X, pp 9-63.

b) - October 2nd. 1567 to January 25th. 1568

Narrative, written by himself, of Hawkins' third voyage to the Guinea coast with the Jesus, the Minion and four other ships; acquisition and sale of slaves; forced by storms to take refuge at Veracruz; the arrival of a large Spanish fleet leads to complicated negotiations in the hope of avoiding hostilities; the English fleet is ambushed by the Spanish and only the Minion and the Judith escape the harbour; the Judith, captained by Francis Drake, whose name is not mentioned, parts company and Hawkins, in the Minion, is obliged by hunger and discontent among the crew to put half his men ashore before returning home via Vigo, losing many on the way and only completing the disastrous voyage with help of men from other English ships.

ANONYMOUS, secretary (?) to Martin Frobisher

a) - May 26th. to September 20th. 1577

A full, dated, rather formal narrative of Frobisher's second voyage in search of the Northwest Passage; the outward voyage; Frobisher Bay; part of Baffin Island annexed for the crown; interesting accounts of contacts with the Inuit; hopes of finding the five men abandoned the previous year; the search for gold; return.

In The Principal Voyages Traffiques and Discoveries of the English Nation, Made by Sea or Over-land to the Remote and Farthest Distant Quarters of the Earth at any time within the compasse of these 1600 Yeeres by Richard Hakluyt. Glasgow, James MacLehose and Sons, twelve volumes, 1903 to 1905, Volume VII, pp 284-319.

b) - May 30th. to October 1st. 1578

A full narrative, with preliminary background and concluding descriptive matter, of Frobisher's third, and last, voyage in search of the Northwest Passage, with a fleet of fifteen ships; a navigational error mistakes the Hudson Strait for Frobisher Bay; ice and storms separate the fleet; the erection of projected wooden building, which was to house one hundred men over winter, is abandoned for lack of materials and time; mining operations; return.

In The Principal Voyages Traffiques and Discoveries of the English Nation, Made by Sea or Over-land to the Remote and Farthest Distant Quarters of the Earth at any time within the compasse of these 1600 Yeeres by Richard Hakluyt. Glasgow, James MacLehose and Sons, twelve volumes, 1903 to 1905, Volume VII, pp 319-375.

Note: There is some internal evidence to suggest that the writer may have been Christopher Hall (qv) who was master of the Gabriel on the first voyage, of Frobisher's ship on the second voyage and was principal navigator on the third.

CLIFFE, Edward - English sailor

September 19th. 1577 to June 2nd. 1579

Narrative of a mariner aboard the Elizabeth which parted company with Drake in the South Sea during his voyage round the world; the voyage to Cape Verde; navigational details and acts of piracy; Brazil; attacked by Patagonians; they lose Drake beyond the Straits of Magellan, wait awhile, then turn for home.

DEE, John [Dr.] (1527-1608) astrologer - B4

a) - January 1577 to April 1601

Personal diary, written in the margins of old almanacs, of the mathematician, astrologer, scientist and magician; meetings with Queen Elizabeth, and many of the powerful men and women of the day, for consultations; domestic affairs and lack of money; quarrels and disputes; the weather, dreams and horoscopes; his health.

1. - The Private Diary of Dr. John Dee edited by J.O.Halliwell. Camden Society, Old Series XIX, 1842. Facsimile reprint, Kila, U.S.A., Kessinger Publishing, no date. This is not a full transcription and the edition is regarded by Houlbrooke (see below) as unreliable.

2. - Extracts: Aitken (1), pp 14-17; Blythe, pp 265-268, Ponsonby (1), pp 61-66.

3. - Extracts, taken from the manuscript, concerning the births and nursing of his first three children, with a record of his wife's menstruations in English Family Life, 1576-1716; An Anthology from Diaries edited by Ralph Houlbrooke. Oxford, Basil Blackwell, 1988, pp 105-108.

b) - January 16th. 1577 to March 27th. 1602 and March 20th. to September 7th. 1607

Private, personal and work diary; domestic, legal and financial affairs; his dealings with Queen Elizabeth and the court; his wife, Jane, their sexual relationship and the conceptions and births of their children; entanglement with Edward Kelly, alchemist and for some years Dee's principal medium in communication with 'Angels' and the spirit world; journey and sojourn on the Continent at Cracow and the court of Rudolf II at Prague; detailed accounts of spirit conferences in the search for the key to all knowledge; a troubled account of the period in which Dee and Kelly held their wives in common, resulting in the birth of a son to Jane, by Kelly; return to England; his reputation tarnished by the taint of conjury; wardenship of the Collegiate Chapter at Manchester; deaths of his wife and most of his children; the fate of his library.

The Diaries of John Dee edited by Edward Fenton. Day Books, Charlbury, Oxfordshire, 1998. A new edition of the diaries previously edited by J.O.Halliwell, with errors corrected and omissions restored, combined with extracts from the 'spirit diaries' and notes from other manuscript sources, most of which have not previously been published accurately; all transcribed from or checked with the original manuscripts. A skilful and successful synthesis, which presents Dee's diary records in all their human, historical, spiritual and scientific aspects. Concise editorial narrative passages clarify the background and are supported by a glossary, gazetteer and biographical guide.

BARKER, Edmund (d.1595) English sailor with James Lancaster's expedition to the East Indies

April 10th. 1591 to May 24th. 1594

Narrative of a voyage to the East Indies in the Penelope, the Marchant Royall and the Edward Bonaventure; they take wine, oil, olives and other things from a Portuguese ship bound for Brasil; in August they reach Saldanha on the west coast of South Africa and barter with the natives for fresh meat; the sailors are now much depleted by scurvy and the Marchant Royall is sent home with a skeleton crew; the Penelope is lost without trace soon after rounding the Cape of Good Hope and the remaining ship, under James Lancaster, after being struck by lightning heads for Mozambique, which they overshoot, taking the cargoes of several more ships from the Moores on the way, and incidentally rescuing a Portuguese boy; they water at Comoro but are attacked by the Moors, losing about thirty men and their only remaining boat; three months at Zanzibar where they capture a priest (imam?) who is ransomed for two months provisions, and fail to capture a Portugueses ship; they head for the Red Sea but are driven round India to the coast of Sumatra where they winter, the complement being reduced to thirty three men and a boy; piratical exploits in the Malacca Straits are concluded when the mutinous crew insist on sailing for home; after many adventures on the voyage and in the West Indies Lancaster, the diarist and a few others are abandoned ashore but eventually return home in a French ship. An epic voyage and the first step to the foundation of the East India Company.

WINTHROP, John (1588-1649) of Boston, first Governor of Massachusetts - A1,M13
March 29th. 1630 to January 11th. 1649

Historical journal; the outward voyage; religious, political and legal and military affairs of the infant colony, often written in retrospect; an important source for the history of Massachusetts; much interesting detail.

1. - A Journal of the Transactions and Occurrences in the Settlement of Massachusetts edited by Noah Webster, Hartford, 1790. This edition is incomplete and error prone.

2. - Republished with additional material as The History of New England from 1630 to 1649 edited by James Savage. Boston, 1825-1826. Reissued 1853. The manuscript for October 1636 to December 8th. 1644 was destroyed by fire in 1825 and the text of this edition is therefore the best available.

3. - The edition edited by J.K.Hosmer, New York, two volumes, 1908, reproduces James Savage's text with a few expurgations. The first year, March 1630 to March 1631 is published in old spelling Massachusetts Historical Society Proceedings LXII (1928-1929) pp 325-361, but this projected fourth edition was then abandoned.

4. - The Journal of John Winthrop, 1630-1649 edited by Richard S.Dunn, James Savage, and Laetitia Yeandle. Cambridge, Massachusetts, Harvard University Press, 1996. This is the full, unabridged, old spelling text.

5. - The Journal of John Winthrop 1630-1649 abridged edition edited by Richard S.Dunn and Laetitia Yeandle. Cambridge, Massachusetts, Harvard University Press, 1996. The text is modernised in spelling and reduced to about two fifths of the original.

6. - Journal of John Winthrop, Esq.; Ship Arbella: Isle of Wight to Cape Ann in New England, 1630, with a partial list of passengers Lincoln, Massachusetts, Sawtells of Somerset, 1969.

EVELYN, John (1620-1706) gentleman - H54,B16
1631 to February 3rd. 1706 (autobiography from birth)

Private diary irregularly kept and often written up later; Royalist and friend of Pepys; member of the Royal Society; private occupations and public affairs, politics, sermons, literature, science and horticulture. An important record.

There are five texts of the diary, the first four being varying selections from the whole, most of which have been printed on several occasions, there are extracts in many anthologies. The principal works are as follows:

1. - First Text: Memoirs Illustrative of the Life and Writings of John Evelyn Esq., F.R.S. edited by William Bray, two volumes, 1818.

2. - Second Text: Memoirs Illustrative of the Life and Writings of John Evelyn Esq. F.R.S. edited by William Bray, two volumes, 1819. A reprint of the whole was published by Alexander Murray, 1870 and there are later reissues of the diary portion of this text by Chandos Classics, George Newnes and Simpkin Marshall.

3. - Third Text: Memoirs of John Evelyn Esq. F.R.S. edited by William Bray, five volumes, 1827; re-edited by H.B.Wheatley in four volumes, Bickers and Son, 1879, reissued in 1906.

4. - Fourth Text: Diary and Correspondence of John Evelyn, F.R.S. edited by John Forster, four volumes, 1850-1852. This edition was reprinted, with revisions, in Bohn's Library, four volumes 1859 and later, and from this edition reprinted by Routledge, 1906. The diary alone, again re-edited, by Austin Dobson, three volumes, 1906 with a revised reprint in 1908 and again in the Everyman Library series.

5. - Fifth Text: The Diary of John Evelyn edited by E.S. de Beer, Oxford, Clarendon Press, six volumes (Oxford Standard Texts) 1955. This is the complete text. There is a single volume edition (Oxford Standard Authors) containing almost the whole of the principal manuscript except for the contents of sermons, under the same title, London, Oxford University Press, 1959, and, again under the same title, a selection (Oxford World's Classics) edited by John Bowle, London, Oxford University Press, 1983.

6. - Extracts: Aitken (1), pp 24-38; Blythe, pp 7-15; Dobbs, pp 32-48; D'Oyley, pp 108-135; Dunaway & Evans, pp 528-538; Houlbrooke, pp 38-40; Ponsonby (1), pp 96-106; Willard, pp 17-30; and Willy (1).

PEPYS, Samuel (1633-1703) naval official - H74,B29

a) - January 1st. 1660 to May 31st. 1669

Justly the most celebrated diary in the English language.

1. - Memoirs of Samuel Pepys, Esq., F.R.S. edited by Lord Braybrooke. London, Henry Colburn, two volumes, 1825. This edition of the diary is a heavily cut and mutilated version of the transcript made by John Smith and contains approximately a quarter of the diary together with a selection of Pepys' correspondence. This edition was twice reprinted in 1828.

2. - Diary of Samuel Pepys Esq., F.R.S. edited by Lord Braybrooke. London, Henry Colburn, five volumes 1848-1849. Described as 'considerably enlarged' this edition was expanded by the addition of passages previously excised and contains about two fifths of the whole. This edition was reissued in 1851 and a 'Revised and Corrected' edition, containing only minimal revisions of the diary text was issued by Hurst and Blackett in 1854.

3. - Diary and Correspondence of Samuel Pepys M.A. F.R.S. deciphered, with additional notes, by the Rev. Mynors Bright. George Bickers, six volumes, 1875-1879. Only 1,000 copies of this edition, which contained about four fifths of the diary, were printed and the edition was not reissued.

4. - The Diary of Samuel Pepys M.A. F.R.S. Clerk of the Acts and Secretary to the Admiralty edited by Henry B. Wheatley. London, Bell, ten volumes, 1893-1899. Volumes IX and X were the index and notes. This edition is based on the Mynors Bright transcription and contains almost the whole text.

5. - The Diary of Samuel Pepys edited by Robert Latham and William Matthews. London, G.Bell & Sons, eleven volumes 1970-1983, Volume X is the Companion and XI the Index. The complete text in an edition unlikely ever to be rivalled.

6. - Shortened editions of the various texts have appeared in sufficiently large numbers to make their listing here impracticable and unrewarding. Two good and accessible shorter versions are Everybody's Pepys abridged from the Wheatley edition by O.F.Morshead, G.Bell & Sons, 1926; and The Shorter Pepys edited by Robert Latham, abridged from the definitive edition, London, Bell and Hyman, 1985.

7. - Extracts: Aitken (1), pp 39-56; Blythe, pp 15-26; Dobbs, pp 49-64; D'Oyley, pp 61-94; Dunaway & Evans, pp 505-527; Fothergill; Houlbrooke, pp 22-27, 72-78, 205-208 and 231-234; Ponsonby (1), pp 82-95; Waite, pp 54-69; Willard, pp 31-41; and Willy (1).

b) - January 3rd. to February 21st. 1670

Formal journal of proceedings before the Privy Council in defence of the management of the Navy during the Second Dutch War; carefully written up, dry and technical.

1. - In Samuel Pepys and the Second Dutch War: Pepys's Navy White Book and Brooke House Papers edited by R.C.Latham Navy Records Society CXXXI, 1995.

2. - The Brooke House Journal edited by C.S.Knighton in Pepys Later Diaries Thrupp, Sutton Publishing, 2004, pp 12-37. This edition contains about one quarter of the text.

c) - May 20th. 1679 to June 30th. 1680

"A journal of the principal passages relating to the commitment of Sir Anthony Deane and Mr. Pepys, and the proceedings thereon"; an account of Pepys' efforts to secure either trial or release following his committal by the House of Commons upon a charge of treason; much summary; complex and interesting but probably largely composed from notes after conclusion of the proceedings.

The King's Bench Journal edited by C.S.Knighton in Pepys Later Diaries Thrupp, Sutton Publishing, 2004, pp 50-69.

Note: See also John Joyne in connection with this and the following item.

d) - January 24th. to April 10th. 1680

Diary record of his success in securing a retraction of the evidence given to the House of Commons by John James, previously employed as his butler; a less formal record than the preceding one, interesting in itself and having occasional reminders of the style of the great diary.

Proceedings with James and Harris edited by C.S.Knighton in Pepys Later Diaries Thrupp, Sutton Publishing, 2004, pp 82-117.

e) - July 30th. 1683 to March 7th. 1684

Pepys' journal of his voyage to Tangier and his stay there; demolition of the mole and the town; Pepys part in deciding compensation for property owners. Always interesting and illuminating about people and politics, but much less lively than the great diary.

1. - The Life, Journals and Correspondence of Samuel Pepys Esq., F.R.S. including a Narrative of his Voyage to Tangier by the Rev. John Smith, London, two volumes, 1841. This diary then remained out of print until Letters and the Second Diary of Samuel Pepys, F.R.S. edited by R.G.Howarth appeared in 1932. London, J.M.Dent and Sons. This is a corrupt text.

2. - The Tangier Papers of Samuel Pepys transcribed, edited, and collated with the transcription of W.Matthews, by Edwin Chappell. Navy Records Society, Volume LXXIII, 1935, is the best edition.

3. - The Tangier Journal edited by C.S.Knighton in Pepys Later Diaries Thrupp, Sutton Publishing, 2004, pp 137-186, is a reduction of the Navy Records society edition.

f) - January 3rd. to April 28th. 1686

Diary record as minister to Charles II responsible for the reformation of naval administration; appointments and formalities; a royal visit to the ships at Chatham.

Diary of the Special Commission edited by C.S.Knighton in Pepys Later Diaries Thrupp, Sutton Publishing, 2004, pp 202-224.

SEWALL, Samuel (1652-1730) of Boston, merchant, printer and judge - H84,A7,M54

December 3rd. 1673 to October 13th. 1729

Private diary, sometimes irregular; beginning at Harvard and ending shortly before his death; an invaluable record of Boston life in the period of the Mathers, with much concentration on political, legal and religious affairs; threats from French and Indians; relations between Colonial Governors and the Colony; a trip to England in 1688-1689; very many notes of births, marriages, and particularly deaths and funerals; a sometimes intimate picture of the diarist and his family, but he is guarded and reticent about his part in the Salem witchcraft trials, which he later regrets; some mentions of property transactions but practically nothing about his business interests; regarded by Matthews as 'probably the best American diary' the compression and detailed focus of the entries demands close attention and much background knowledge from the reader.

HENNEPIN, Louis (Antoine) (1626-1704) Roman Catholic priest and missionary of the Franciscan Recollet order - E

1675 to 1680 (?)

“Hennepin was 39 when he departed in 1679 with La Salle from Quebec City to construct the 45-ton barque Le Griffon, sail through the Great Lakes, and explore the unknown West. Hennepin was with La Salle at the construction of Fort Crevecoeur (near present-day Peoria, Illinois) in January 1680. In February, La Salle sent Hennepin and two others as an advance party to search for the Mississippi River. The party followed the Illinois River to its junction with the Mississippi. Shortly thereafter, Hennepin was captured by a Sioux war party and carried off for a time into what is now the state of Minnesota. In September 1680, thanks to Daniel Greysolon, Sieur Du Lhut, Hennepin and the others were given canoes and allowed to leave, eventually returning to Quebec. Hennepin returned to France and was never allowed by his order to return to North America.”

In A New Discovery of a Vast Country Chicago, McClurg, two volumes 1903, reprinted from the second London edition of 1698.

Note: “Hennepin has been denounced by many historians and historical critics as an arrant falsifier. Certain writers have sought to repel this charge by claiming that the erroneous statements are in fact interpolations by other persons. The weight of the evidence is however adverse to such a theory.” (Catholic Encyclopedia, 1913).

LLOYD, Nancy - E,F

1681 to 1700

From the Bulletin of Friends' Historical Association XVII, No. 2, Autumn, 1928: "... in very large measure historical. It purports to be the diary of the years 1681-1700 of Hannah, daughter of Thomas Lloyd. Coming to America from Wales with her father at the age of seventeen, Nancy witnessed and recorded many of the difficulties of the first twenty years of Pennsylvania, ... There are many allusions to true incidents in history and an evident effort to use real biographical data as far as it was available. The notes indicate how extensively these have been woven into the text. Otherwise the story is an imaginative reconstruction of a Quakeress' childhood and love story."

Nancy Lloyd: The Journal of a Quaker Pioneer Frank-Maurice, 1927.

MATHER, Cotton [The Rev.] (1663-1728) of Boston - H111,A9,M69
